

Did you Know

By Pat J. Kirwin

THAT Barton Walters, local attorney, has the key to the first jail in Circleville. This key, with a long and interesting history, was sold to Mr. Walters several years ago by Dr. H. R. Clarke of this city. The key is a beautiful specimen of hand-carved wrought iron work and it is thought that a local foundry-man made it. In 1860 when this old structure was being torn down, Dr. C. C. Clarke and William Doane were appointed to draw up plans for the construction of a new city building which would house the city jail. At that time Dr. Clarke, the living Dr. Clarke's father, came into possession of the key. The old relic hung in Dr. Clarke's and his father's offices a number of years. At one time Dr. H. R. Clarke was offered "any price" for the key by a Columbus admirer of antiques, but he refused to sell it. Several years ago while conducting a sale, Dr. Clarke offered the key and it was purchased by Mr. Walters. It measures about 10 inches long and weighs about two and one-half pounds.

That the safe in the county treasurer's office was installed in December, 1869, because the old safe "was pie for the burglars." According to newspapers of the time the old safe was considered one of the best made, but it was added, "the burglars improve in skill as fast as the manufacturers and from last accounts the burglars have the best of it." The safe weighs 13,000 pounds, is 60 inches high, 48 inches in width and 29 inches deep. The walls are three and one-half feet thick and made of alternate plates of iron and steel welded together. Inside the safe is a chest about two feet high. At the time the safe was installed the outer door had one of Macneale's excelsior locks and the door of the chest, two of Sargent's magnetic locks. Both were dial locks without keys. However since that time improvements have been made on the safe, time locks being attached. The safe was originally installed by Macneale and Urbana of Cincinnati at a cost of $2,100.

That the first railroad completed through Circleville, the Cincinnati, Wilmington and Zanesville Co., the first train of which arrived here in March, 1857 was sold in Cincinnati on December 2, 1869, by Charles Moran, receiver, for $1,004,000. T. L. Jewett, president of the Panhandle Railroad was the purchaser. It was at this time that the Pennsylvania railroad began operating through here, as the above purchase secured the control of the road to the Pennsylvania Central and Panhandle road which later became the Pennsylvania.

That Emory G. Humaston, a teacher in the Circleville Union school 70 years ago, died from injuries inflicted by one of his pupils. On June 10, 1862, as Mr. Humaston attempted to correct a lad of 15 years of age, the pupil picked up an iron ink-stand hurling it at striking Mr. Humaston on the right side of the head above the temple, fracturing his skull. Dr. H. R. Clarke, W. Union-st., was a member of the class. The teacher completed his work for the day but was taken badly ill in the evening. He died on Monday, June 16. The lad was arrested and later indicted for manslaughter, but due to his youthful age, he was never punished by law. The board of education paid all of Mr. Humaston's expenses including his funeral and employed two attorneys, Messrs. Olds and Reick to investigate the facts.

FACT KEPT SECRET

In famous Abductor is Identified in Crime

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 17.—William Hamm, Jr., 39-year-old millionaire brewer and scion of one of St. Paul's oldest families, was being held today by kidnapers who have threatened to kill their captive unless $100,000 ransom is paid.

Warning that they are dealing with a veteran kidnaping gang of the northwest was served on authorities when a taxi-cab driver who delivered the ransom note identified Verne Sankey as the man who engaged him for the mission.

Sankey is wanted for the abduction here of Haskell Bohn, son of a wealthy manufacturer, as well as the sensational kidnaping of Charles Boettcher II, Denver millionaire, several months ago.

NEWS WITHHELD

Police withheld news of the abduction, which occurred Thursday, until late last night in the hope of trapping the kidnapers. Efforts to contact the gang had proved futile, however.

Although police were without definite information as to where Hamm was seized, it is believed that he fell into the hands of the kidnapers while walking from his office to the Hamm residence.

A son of the late William Hamm, St. Paul capitalist, the abduction victim is president and treasurer of the Theodore Hamm Brewing Company of St. Paul. He likewise directs extensive realty properties and is prominent in St. Paul social and industrial circles.

Up to Him to Put U. S. to Work

AS A SOLDIER

AS HE IS TO-DAY

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Soldier, lawyer, industrialist and embodying the dominant characteristics of all three professions—that is General Hugh S. Johnson, to whom President Roosevelt has entrusted the gigantic task of administering the almost unlimited powers over industry conferred upon the government by the Industrial Recovery Bill, which includes the gigantic $3,612,000,000 public works program.

Until his selection for the important task by the President, General Johnson was unknown to the public at large. But those on the inside know that he has been a power on Capitol Hill since the new Administration took office. In fact, even during the last session of the Hoover Administration, he created a furor in the capital by questioning the figures of the then Secretary of the Treasury, Ogden L. Mills.

Secretary Mills had announced that $900,000,000 new revenue would be sufficient to balance the Federal budget. Congress took his word for it. Suddenly, from nowhere, appeared General Johnson to inform the Ways and Means Committee, with soldierly candor, that the Mills figures were all

Thus far, with over half the month gone, only three couples have been granted licenses in Judge C. C. Young's court. In June last year 20 permits to wed were granted.

Judge Young Saturday was unable to account for the slump other than waging that Kentucky is capturing most of the local prospective brides and grooms.

SCANT HOPE HELD FOR DARING FLIER

'Jim' Mattern Unheard From; Alaska Aviators See Possibility of Landing on Isle.

MOSTER, Alaska, June 17.—The mysterious silence of the Arctic closed in today on "Smiling" Jimmy Mattern, daring Texas aviator who hopped off Wednesday from Khabarovsk, Siberia, on the dangerous 2,400-mile flight to Nome, Alaska.

Despite growing fears that he may have met with an accident, veteran Nome aviators asserted there was a good chance that he may have landed safely on some uninhabited Aleutian island, as did Allen and Moyle on a similar flight several years ago, or else turned back to some tiny Siberian camp that was without communications with the outside world.

FINAL VOTE ON TAX NOW NEAR

Expect Showdown Tuesday; Foodstuffs Exemption Removed From Bill.

COLUMBUS, June 17.—Having blasted the foodstuff exemption out of Governor George White's sales tax during preliminary debate yesterday in the House of Representatives, enemies of the bill today started a week-end drive for strength to defeat the tax entirely when it comes up for a vote, probably Tuesday.

Encouraged by their triumph over administration forces, they served notice that they will insist upon elimination of nearly all exemptions and a consequent reduction of the 2 per cent tax to a one per cent tax if they are compelled to accept the bill.

The victory scored by the insurgents during a debate which raged for several hours yesterday means that all foods would come within the bounds of the governor's $40,000,000 tax bill.

People may be stampeded by hue and cry but when the results of intemperance show themselves in all their ugliness there will be an even stronger revolt than before. Circleville is no exception to the communities that have paid the price in manhood lost, in youth debauched by the liquor traffic in days gone by. When it happens again, as it inevitably will, then a new revolt will ensue. No battle is finished until the victory is won. Grant said of his method of attacking the enemy, "We will fight it out on this line if it takes all summer." The prolonged attack finally won. The liquor traffic because the liquor traffic undoes every high thing the church is trying to do. There is no room for compromise, only eternal enmity and warfare, and some day the world as a whole will outlaw it forever as an enemy not to be endured. You may not agree. At least find out why the church stands where it does. Go to church tomorrow. Take a friend.

The Church Invites You

THE ETERNAL APPEAL OF THE CHURCH

The church should have a perpetual appeal because time is invested in thoughts of eternity. The enduring things of all life—faith, hope, love, are stressed there. We are God hungry by creation, and He can be found always in the sanctuary. Public worship sincerely engaged in can but draw to God. The sins, sorrows, cares and responsibilities of our daily life are erased by worship and praise. Finally, Jesus Christ, the divine Son of God, found his way into the temple to worship and urges all His followers to do likewise.

Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

HOW IMPROVE CHURCH FINANCES?

This very pertinent question has been answered by Warren H. Denison in The Congregationalist. He recommends 1. That faith be established among church people in the cause of Christianity; stimulation of confidence in the local church. 2. That men and women of high personal character be chosen for finance department committees, treasurers, canvassers. 3. That a new and enlarged vision of the value of the church to the world, the community, their families and themselves be given to the congregation. 4. That only Scriptural methods and plans be used for the financial program. 5. That all funds be properly accounted for in a business-like way. 6. That no apologies be made or that there be no hesitancy in asking people for money for the Kingdom work. Through financial contacts came greater interest in other phases of the Christian life. 7. That all organizations of the church report all receipts disbursements and balances to the church for information and permanent record. 8. That new members be called upon by the financial secretary the week following their uniting with the church and have explained to them the church's financial plan and secure his pledge. 9. That some new persons be placed on the finance committee each year with a system of rotation so that new leadership in this field is constantly being developed.

After the Civil War, many offers of honored places came to General Robert E. Lee, but he refused all but the one which came from Washington College, where he became president at a very small salary.

On one occasion he was tendered the presidency of an insurance company at a salary of $50,000. He declined the offer on the grounds that he knew nothing about the business and therefore he was not worth that salary offered.

"But General," said the representative interviewing him, "You will not be expected to do any work. What we wish is the use of your name."

"Don't you think that if my name is worth $50,000 a year to you, I ought to be very careful about taking care of it?" was General Lee's response.

JESUS RISES FROM THE DEAD

LESSON TEXT—Mark 16:1-20. GOLDEN TEXT—And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted. Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: he is risen; he is not here: behold the place where they laid him. Mark 16:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Living Again.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Conquers Death.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Living Lord.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Power of the Resurrection.

I. The Visit to the Sepulchre (vv. 1-4).

1. By whom (v. 1). Mary Magdalene, the mother of James, and Salome. They brought sweet spices with which to anoint him. This was a ministry of love, yet had they believed what he had said concerning his resurrection, they would have known that his body would not be there.

Mary of Bethany understood this. She therefore expressed intelligent affection for the Lord, and against the day of his burying poured out her box of precious ointment upon him (John 12:3, 7).

2. The time of (v. 2). It was very early in the morning of the first day of the week, before the rising of the sun.

3. Their perplexity (vv. 3, 4). They questioned as to who should roll away the large stone from the mouth of the tomb. To their surprise they found the stone removed.

II. The Angel in the Tomb (vv. 5-8).

Jesus knew that these women would come to the sepulchre with perplexed and unbelieving hearts, so he had an angel waiting there to announce to them the fact of his resurrection. Note the message of the angel:

1. "Be not affrighted" (v. 6). How sorely they needed this kind word.

2. "Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth which was crucified" (v. 6). This threefold designation shows with marvelous clearness—
a. His humanity—"Jesus."
b. His lowly residence—"Nazareth."
c. His ignominious death—"crucified."

3. "He is risen; he is not here. Behold where they laid him" (v. 6). He was born in lowly circumstances and suffered the shameful death on the cross, but now is the conqueror of death. His resurrection gives meaning to his death (I. Cor. 15:17).

4. "Go your way, tell his disciples and Peter" (v. 7). All the disciples needed this blessed news, but Peter especially, since he had so emphatically denied his Lord.

5. "He goeth before you into Galilee, there shall ye see him" (v. 7). Christ had told the disciples that he would rise from the dead and meet them in Galilee (Matt. 28:32).

III. The Appearances of the Risen Christ (vv. 9-14).

Since Christ's resurrection was to be the central theme of apostolic preaching, it was necessary that they have a certainty of knowledge as to it (Acts 1:3). Without the resurrection of Christ, his death would be meaningless. Out of the ten or more appearances, Mark refers to three.

1. To Mary Magdalene (v. 9-11). Her devotion was amply rewarded by being the first to meet the risen Lord. She went at once and told the story to the disciples, but they refused to believe her.

2. To two disciples on the way to Emmaus (vv. 12, 13). Luke gives full particulars concerning this appearance.

pearance (Luke 24:13-25). Jesus walked, talked, and ate with them, convincing them that he had indeed risen from the dead.

3. The eleven disciples (v. 14). Jesus appeared to them while sitting at meat, and reproved them for their unbelief. "The fact that they steadfastly resisted the testimony that Christ had risen, but afterwards were willing to risk their lives in the proclamation of this truth, proves the genuineness of their faith and should strengthen ours."

IV. The Commission of the Risen Lord (vv. 15-18).

After the disciples were convinced of the truth of his resurrection, Jesus sent them forth to preach the gospel to every creature. What a blessed issue to those who believe, and how awful to those who believe not. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned" (v. 16).

V. The Activity of the Risen and Ascended Christ (vv. 19, 20).

After giving the disciples their commission, he ascended on high, and from the unseen sphere directed their activities. Whenever they went he confirmed their word with signs.

Keller Stumble Ousts Hurdler

CHICAGO, June 17.—Well-muscled collegiates and high school athletes from all parts of the country will compete at Soldier field this afternoon and tonight and when it's all over will come Southern California with another and a fourth national collegiate track and field championship.

This much and the winning of the 100 and 200-yard dash by Ralph Metcalfe, the midnight express of Marquette, will be assured. That there will be more customers in the yawning chasm of the great stadium than officials and perspiring contestants is not assured.

Certainly the 500 odd spectators who viewed the qualifying events yesterday did not indicate that the gates would be torn down in an effort to see the boys doing the dying for dear old si-wash today. Conspicuous by his absence was "Blazing Ben" Eastman, whose legs were to have carried Stanford to victory.

Trojans favored

But Eastman could not be there and so Southern California, according to those who sit up by candlelight to settle such matters, will be the favorite.

Disposal Of Tax Dollar Is Shown

COLUMBUS, June 17.—Here's the low-down on where your tax money goes.

The information is culled from Governor George White's $80,000,000 biennial appropriation bill, 300 pages thick, which reveals among other things, that Ohio's biggest business is its government.

The money you contribute in taxes is used to operate a going concern that outstrips even the wealthiest corporations in the magnitude of its spending.

Thirty-six million dollars for highways and the highway department. Whew! Two years ago, however, when the state was richer, the highway budget was nearly $52,000,000.

A cool $1,382,000 for the dignified group of legal experts comprising the state supreme court, and their helpers. This includes a salary of $10,480 a year for Chief Justice Carl V. Weygant and salaries of $10,000 a year for each of six associate justices.

DROP IN BUCKET

The amount spent on the governor, his secretaries and servants, his occasional travels and the executive mansion is just a drop in the bucket, totaling $95,936.

Governor White's salary is $8,400, well under the pay of the supreme court judges. He has three secretaries, two clerks, four stenographers, a telephone operator and a messenger attending him at the executive offices.

William J. Moore, the first secretary, who formerly was an English instructor at Notre Dame University, draws a salary of $4,400.

The governor is taken home to the executive mansion at night by a $1,346-a-year chauffeur, where the door is opened by a $1,022-a-year butler, who then surrenders him to a $1,080-a-year cook.

Miss Mary White, hostess of the mansion, employs two maids, who receive a total of $1,596 a year.

The legislature, spending at the rate of $1,000 a day while it is in session, requires $724,759 for the two-year period.

The safety and security afforded the state by the Ohio National Guard costs $370,714, including $7,152 a year for an air hanger, $7,606 a year for an arsenal, and $4,000 a year for "the promotion of rifle practice."

Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, the commander, gets $2,200 a year for superintending the militia, in addition to his regular pay of $5,200 for being a member of the cabinet.

Next to the highway department, the most expensive function of government is the welfare department, which pays $12,899,800 for the care of the state's wards at various welfare institutions.

OHIO STATE HIGH

Ohio State University, kingpin of the educational system, costs $5,866,900 for the two years, and this is a big reduction from 1931-32. The university spends $15,000 a year for postage alone. Salaries and wages amount to $4,588,450 for the biennium.

For the upkeep of the state's one airplane and the pay of Capt. Fred Smith, state director of aeronautics, along with his assistants the state pays a total of $21,745.

An unsuccessful attempt to eliminate the appropriation for the bureau of aeronautics on the ground that it is not necessary, was made when the appropriation bill was considered in the house of representatives.

The prohibition department's estimated two-year expenditure is $200,000.

Minor items in the budget, which contribute to the immense total include the following:

Electoral college, $700; state fair, $393,833; Logan Elm State park, $770; bureau of criminal identification, $19,836; film censorship, $37,298; Ohio Cooperative Topographic survey, $32,400; division of laundry in the department of education, $29,196; Ohio School of the Air, $8,533; Ohio Waterways commission, $5,000; Headquarters, Ohio Grand Army of the Republic, $7,940; state board of embalming examiners, $6,498; 37th Division, A. E. F. Veterans' Association, $3,000; Ohio Rainbow Division, $1,750; bureau of conservation officers, $433,110; bureau of game farms, $134,428; bureau of inland lakes and parks, $177,555; United Spanish War Veterans, $13,160.

The budget proposed by Governor White, although reaching a high total, is one of the lowest submitted in Ohio in many years. The governor's economy axe has cut the appropriation almost in half. If state revenues fail to measure up to expectations, the governor, by executive action, will arbitrarily make further cuts.

Seaplane Always Will Be Fastest, Says Expert

St. Louis.—Land planes can never hope to attain the speed in the air that seaplanes can, according to Maj. James H. Doolittle, holder of the American Seaplane record.

"Paradoxical as it may seem," Doolittle observed, "airplane speed in the air is governed by its landing speed."

"The pontoons of a seaplane's landing gear," he said, "permit comparatively smooth contact with the water with a suction effect, compared with the rough bouncing of land-plane wheels on a ground surface, which, at extremely high speeds, has a tendency to turn the plane over."

The most powerful engine used in land-racing planes today is about 850 horse power, while a 2,500-horse power engine was developed for the English seaplane which flew 406 miles per hour, the record. The land-plane record is 294 miles an hour.

Less Spending Needed

FIGURES collected by the Twentieth Century fund, and organization making a study of economics, point unerringly to the fact that spending by the state and local governments must be drastically reduced if the country is to be saved from a more serious experience than that through which it now is passing.

The aggregate of state and local debts in 1932 was $18,685,000,000, which represented an increase from $17,000,000,000 in 1929 and was four times that of 1914. The interest alone in 1932 amounted to $887,000,000, with retirements calling for $607,000,000 in addition.

Of the total indebtedness, only $2,000,000,000 represented the debts of states, which emphasizes that municipalities are the chief offenders in unwise spending. The total of state and local debts has risen to 7 per cent of the nation's taxable wealth as against 3 per cent a decade ago.

What are some of the results of these mounting debts? Increased taxation to meet them, is one. A more serious one is that taxes already have reached such heavy proportions in some communities that they can not be boosted further and that default results. Up to February 1 last, the Twentieth Century fund found, more than 1,100 local governments in 42 states had defaulted on their bonded indebtedness, and one state, Arkansas, was listed as having done likewise.

These figures show the serious drift of conditions. There is but one remedy and that is to cut down on spending.

If prosperity is to endure, it is evident that there must be called a halt to this extravagant borrowing by local governments. Massachusetts has learned what this pay-as-you-go plan can accomplish in state affairs. Cities and towns the country over must learn the same lesson. Otherwise the time will come when borrowing will be no longer possible, and private business will be in danger of suffocation in the midst of public bankruptcy.

If the federal government permits easy access to the federal treasury of municipalities, it will be giving encouragement to continuance of the conditions that have brought on the present dangerous situation.

Tax Slackers

THOSE who evade or attempt to evade payment of taxes do not cheat the government, every citizen being a part of the government must have so much revenue who pay their taxes. The government must have so much revenue and those who fail to pay their share are only increasing the tax burden of better citizens.

It is estimated by the treasury department at Washington that one of every 22 citizens is a tax dodger. This means that millions are shirking some portion of their duties as citizens, although all enjoy their full share of the benefits of citizenship.

There might be less tax evasion if more people looked upon payment of taxes as a civic duty rather than as a penalty of citizenship. Probably most tax dodgers believe they are withholding from extravagant governments and gouging politicians rather than heaping new burdens on fellow citizens.

High Cost of Bad Health

JOHN L. DUBLIN, health statistician, asserts that the total economic value of human beings in the United States—of their revenue-producing value—is about 1,500 billion dollars, as opposed to all material and animal wealth in the country of 321 billion dollars.

He asserts that the economic loss by preventable deaths is 6 billion dollars yearly, while 2 1/4 billion are lost through illness sufficient to incapacitate the sick from working.

It is clear, without raising the question of humanity, much less sentimentality, that public money spent for health protection and education will be repaid many times over by reducing unnecessary deaths and sickness.

MARY FAITH

by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER I

Mary Faith was burning her bridges. For three years, almost four, she had been waiting to burn them. Waiting to give up her room at Mrs. Puckett's family hotel in River Street. Waiting to tell Mr. Mark Nesbit, the head of the Nesbit Mercantile Company, that she was planning to give up her position as his private secretary just as soon as he could fill her place. Waiting to let her small world know that she was going to marry Kim Farrell at last.

For three years, almost four, she had been engaged to marry Kim Farrell. For three years she had worn his modest diamond on the third finger of her left hand, and had spent part of every lunch hour embroidering guest towels and table runners for the home that would be Kim's and hers some day.

"If you don't get married pretty soon," Jean Bartlett, the head stenographer at Nesbit's, had said to her less than a week before, "you'll own enough hand embroidered linens to start a shop! I don't believe in these long engagements myself. There should be a law against them. . . . Too many girls find themselves disappointed old maids at the end of them instead of blushing brides!"

Mary Faith had not answered her. She had only looked at her with clear, untroubled eyes and smiled. She had no doubts about Kim Farrell. He loved her just as she loved him. And so she was willing to wait for him.

And then late last night, as if to justify her faith in him, Kim had suddenly turned to her in the lamplight dimness of Mrs. Puckett's old-fashioned parlor and asked her when she would marry him.

"Why—in about two weeks, I think," she had answered him as soon as she could get her breath. "You see, I'll have to tell Mr. Nesbit I'm leaving, and it will take me a few days to break his new secretary in to do my work. . . . Kim, to think of us really getting married in two weeks! Why, I never knew any one could be so happy as I am right this minute!"

Long afterward it came back to her that he had said nothing about his own happiness that night.

At breakfast she had told Mrs. Puckett that she was going to be married on the first of October.

At noon she had broken the news to Jean Bartlett, who was half expecting to step into her shoes at the office.

It was half past five in the afternoon now, and Mary Faith was standing at the door of Mr. Mark Nesbit's private office.

She had something for him to sign in one hand and the door knob in the other. . . . It was going to be hard to open that door and walk into the office to tell him she was leaving Nesbit's at the end of the month.

She had worked for him for four years—one year as his private secretary and three years as his stenographer. The place itself was like home to her. She had come to love the big, shabby offices with their cork-covered floors, their green-shaded lights and their high, narrow windows that faced the west.

The people who worked in them were her friends—all of them, from Jean Bartlett down to Stanley Odeskalki, the office boy. There was not one of them whom she was not going to miss in the new life that lay just ahead of her.

With a keen little sigh she turned the door knob and stepped into Mr. Mark Nesbit's office. He was standing with his back to the room, looking down into the parking space at the side of the building and fidgeting with the window shade.

At the sound of the door closing he swung round and met Mary

"I'm going to be married on the first of October, Mr. Nesbit," said Mary

Faith's eyes. Her deep steady eyes were like Mary Faith herself, somehow. You could not look into them without seeing that you could bank on her always for honesty and goodness.

They were dark blue, fringed with heavy lashes, and they would have given a certain beauty to even a plain woman. But Mary Faith was not plain. Health glowed in her cheeks and lips with a rose-red flame that left the rest of her face to the dusky whiteness of her skin, to the blackness of her brows and lashes. Her dark hair swept up from a widow's peak on her forehead and her lips, when she smiled, had the tilt of flying wings.

She was not smiling now. Serious and silent, moving like a breath, she came across the thick carpet of the office and laid her letters down upon Mr. Nesbit's glass-topped desk.

"I can mail these on my way home, Mr. Nesbit," she said quietly as she stood beside his chair, watching him sign his name to them one by one.

He had nice, clever-looking hands, she thought, watching them move across the papers in front of him. She had always liked his nice, home-like face, his dark quick glance, his firm, pleasant way of giving orders.

She knew that he was a bachelor and that he was only thirty-four years old. She knew too that he was making a tremendous success of the business that had been left to him by his father.

But neither his money nor his attractive bachelorhood had ever had any power to stir Mary Faith. For she had met Kim Farrell just a little while after she began to work at Nesbit's, and since that time there had been only one man in the world for her—Kim.

"Mr. Nesbit," she said when Mr. Nesbit had laid down his fountain pen and was blotting the last of the

The picture is said to give Miss Crawford brilliant opportunities as the young English girl who struggles desperately to win a chance for love amid the turmoil of the World War. The three men with whom her life is entangled are Cooper as the American aviator, Robert Young as the childhood sweetheart who wins her for a few brief days during the hysteria of life in a bullet town, and Franchot Tone,

Summer the Season of Varied Skin Complaints

The Pores of the Skin Are More Active and Hence More Liable to Infection During the Warm Months

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Commissioner of Health, United States senator from New York New York City

WHAT CAUSES itchy skin? This is a question often asked by the doctor during the summer months. Redness, itching and other embarrassing skin symptoms, are frequent complaints during warm weather.

At this time of the year the pores of the skin are more active, secrete more sweat and are more liable to infection. The danger of exposure to germs, parasites and skin diseases is increased by beach parties, bathing waters and pools, and contact with poisonous plants.

Many summer skin ailments can be traced to faulty digestion, lack of proper elimination and improper food. For example, soon after eating sea food a person may break out in a rash. The rash may be confined to the chest or face, or it may involve a large part of the body. The skin itches, becomes inflamed and the condition is extremely annoying.

"Impetigo Contagiosa" is a common infectious disease of the skin usually encountered during the summer months. It is caused by a germ or parasite and is spread by infected dogs and cats. It is extremely contagious, rapidly spreading from one child to another. In rare instances adults may acquire the disease in beauty shops or barber shops. That is why you select the clean, sanitary shop of which there are plenty.

Though a disagreeable disease, impetigo fortunately is not a serious one. The skin becomes covered with many blisters filled with pus. The blisters break and dry upon the skin where they appear to be "stuck on," resembling wafers. The inflammation quickly subsides upon the application of a mild and soothing antiseptic lotion.

Prompt Treatment Essential
There are many other summer skin disturbances. I might say a word about "athlete's foot." This affliction is especially common at beaches and summer resorts where the visitors walk about without shoes or slippers. The disease is caused by a parasite usually encountered at bathing beaches, public pools and gymnasiums.

The affliction is more commonly known as "ringworm." When recognized and proper measures are taken, the disease can be easily checked. Too often it is neglected, or patent medicines are used without success.

Never neglect inflammation or itching of the skin. If you are in doubt and do not know what your trouble is, consult with your doctor. Prompt and reliable medical attention will save you many hours of unnecessary suffering and worry.

Answers to Health Queries
M. K. Q.—What causes pus under the eyes?
A.—This may be due to a kidney or heart condition. It would be well to have a urinalysis made.

Mrs. W. N. B. Q.—What causes a nervous twitching of the upper lip?
A.—Try to locate the cause of the nervousness. Have an examination.

X. Y. Z. Q.—Can a wen on the forehead be removed without a painful operation?
A.—Yes, simple operation will remove it.

A Reader. Q.—Is there any cure for goiter besides an operation?
A.—Depends on condition. This can only be determined by an examination. Consult your doctor.

W. L. Q.—What causes the nose to itch and run constantly?
A.—This may be due to a form of hay fever or nasal catarrh.

Mrs. J. O. Q.—Is trench mouth infectious?
A.—Yes. Great care should be taken in coming in contact with the patient's mouth. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question. (Copyright, 1933, K. F. S., Inc.)

South African Folk Music

Traced Back to Holland

In South Africa today there are still people singing the songs that their ancestors sang in Holland seven hundred or eight hundred years ago, says a writer in the San Francisco Chronicle. This has been known as a result of an effort to record on the gramophone the peculiar folk music that has grown up among the white colonists since they first settled at the Cape in 1652.

A number of nations have contributed to South African folk music, including Hottentots, Malay slaves imported there in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries, Bantu tribesmen from the north, and members of Oriental races shipwrecked on the shores. But the bulk of South Africa's folk music is of white origin, based on that of old-time Holland, also on that of France, England and Germany 200 or more years ago. Many of the melodies exist only in the memories of the native fiddlers at Boer merry-makings.

Perhaps the most curious phase of the local music is that it has preserved verses that are only historical curios in their countries of origin. Such, for instance, is the famous old lay, "Die Nonnetjie en die Riddertje" (The Little Nun and the Little Knight), sung by Calvinistic Boers, to whom a Catholic Europe is inconceivable and to whom the customs of medieval knighthood are wholly unfamiliar.

Almanac Dates Far Back

Into Early Day History

Almanacs date far back into antiquity, being issued as far back as the Fifth century after Christ by the Chinese. It is thought likely that they are of even older origin, dating back into early days of Asiatic history, says the Washington Star.

The early productions, however, were limited, as they were produced by long hand, but with the advent of printing they became much more widely circulated. Containing much valuable information on astronomy, the tides and other such matters, they also were cheapened by coarse and superstitious remarks. They were often given to prediction both of the course of the weather and the probable occurrence of events. Most of the prognostications, however, were purely imaginary, although one outstanding example did occur when our Nostradamus foretold the death of Henry II of France.

Franklin's Poor Richard Almanac, first published in 1732, was the most famous of the American almanacs of the early history of America. Since that time, however, the advancement of the almanac has been rapid, and now many are put out which are reference books of great value containing information, properly catalogued on a wide variety of subjects.

UP TO HIM

wet, asserting that $1,300,000,000 new revenue was needed. Next day the Secretary revised his figures. Johnson won.

HAD ACTIVE CAREER

General Johnson was born at Fort Scott, Kan., on August 5, 1882. He received his preliminary education at the Northwestern Normal School; was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1903 and was commissioned Second Lieutenant in the 1st Cavalry.

By 1917 he was Lieutenant Colonel Judge Advocate, and when the United States entered the World War, he showed a genius for organization that won him the praise of the Wilson Administration and that of the Allied generals.

Among the achievements of General Johnson was the creation of the selective draft plan whereby two millions of Americans were smoothly put in uniform and sent to France. Later he served as a member of the War Industries Board.

INDUSTRY AND POLITICS

After the war, Johnson left the Army with the rank of brigadier general and literally beat his sword into a plowshare, for he set his talents to making plows. During President Roosevelt's campaign last fall, Johnson was one of the big figures behind the scenes. Later, though not mentioned as a member of the so-called "Brain Trust," he was in the President's confidence on every major decision made by the Administration.

During the General's army career he found time to take a law degree from the University of California, and the legal knowledge thus gained, combined with his industrial experience and the knack of handling men acquired in the army, makes him the ideal man for the big job entrusted to him.

BLUNT AND FEARLESS

Since his appearance on the Washington scene, General Johnson has won himself a reputation for forcefulness of expression and a straightforward method of doing business. It is reported that only the other day he told the head of a big steel corporation that he would listen to "no more bull." He wants to put at least a million men to work right away and he has not planned any detours in doing it.

addition to the $50,000,000 already certain to be spent on post offices, federal buildings, court houses, immigration stations, etc., another $50,000,000 would be thrown on the market in 90 days assuring that the government would seek to have $100,000,000 of new buildings under way by October.

Anticipating enactment of the president's public works program the treasury has been receiving bids for projects under the first $25,000,000 for the last several days and in all has asked for bids on 22 projects.

These will be opened in July and the work started as soon after as the contractor can get to work. The projects are being chosen from a list of public buildings or improvements already allocated by congress and it is expected as many as ten a day will be announced shortly.

COLUMBUS, June 17--A warning was sounded to local authorities throughout Ohio today to take prompt action if they expect to share in the state's portion of federal funds for public works construction.

There will be no haphazard selection of projects to be included on the public work schedule for Ohio. It was pointed out by Fred I. Rowe, chairman of Governor White's Work Project Development committee.

Instead, Rowe declared, sponsors of relief projects must obtain formal legal approval of the respective political subdivisions in the state of the contemplated projects.

NEED SPONSORSHIP

Priority of projects based upon their importance and desirability should be approved legally by city councils' boards of county commissioners, or other legal authorities before presentation to the state for inclusion in the public works program, he asserted.

ABDUCTION

Hamm, first disclosed the kidnapping.

"We have just kidnapped Mr. Hamm," said a man's voice on the telephone. "You will hear from us later."

This was followed by a note which Dunn received yesterday afternoon. The message stated that Hamm was being held for $100,000 ransom and added:

"He will be killed if the cash isn't paid over."

Hamm had added a signed postscript to the note, begging his associates to pay the ransom immediately. Detailed instructions were given for payment of the ransom.

MOVE CAUTIOUSLY

Knowing that the millionaire's life would be endangered by a vigorous hunt for the gang, police were proceeding cautiously with the investigation, allowing the victim's associates to deal directly with the kidnapers to effect Hamm's release.

A taxicab driver delivered the ransom note to Dunn. He told police that a man who said his name was Gordon engaged him to deliver the letter for a $2 fee.

"He said his name was 'Gordon' and lived at the Lowry Hotel," the taxi driver said. "I took the note and delivered it."

Shown a picture of Sankey, the cab driver said he was the same man who hired him to deliver the note. Sankey has been sought for the abduction of young Bohn here last year and the kidnapping of Boettcher in Denver.

The note delivered to Dunn gave specific instructions that a brewing company truck contact the kidnapers for payment of the $100,000. Only one man must be aboard the vehicle, the instructions read, and he would be met on the highway by agents of the kidnapers riding in 25 automobiles.

Friends of Hamm were ready to comply with the demands.

Since his divorce Hamm had made his home with his mother here.

Sankey has managed to elude a police search for more than a year. His wife, the mother of two children, was arrested in Denver and brought here for trial in complicity in the Bohn kidnapping here. Yesterday she was acquitted but was immediately re-arrested for federal authorities in connection with the Boettcher kidnapping.

Ray Robinson was recently sentenced to 25 years in prison for the Bohn kidnapping. The abductors had sized young Bohn at his home here, held him captive a week, and released the boy on payment of $12,000 ransom.

CHILD IS INJURED

CHILLICOTHE, June 17--Marilyn, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ortman, Arch-st., this city, was painfully injured Friday when the automobile in which she was riding with Miss Lenore Bowman figured in an accident.

The child suffered a brain concussion.

The girl's father is editor of the Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

wered in kind, and an instant later the entrance of the Union station resembled a battle field with victims dotting the sidewalks.

Obviously the gunmen's attack had been well planned and based on accurate information as to the strength of the guard in charge of their captive companion.

Each gunman covered his man and with such dexterity that before reinforcements could arrive all of the officers were either dead or wounded.

Amazed spectators stood paralyzed and not daring to interfere while the desperadoes made their getaway. The gun battle broke so suddenly and struck such terror in the hearts of witnesses that it was difficult to get any two to agree on exactly what happened.

Some said there were only three bandits, but the majority agreed they numbered five. Likewise, there were conflicting accounts of their getaway. Some witnesses claimed they fled in a motor car and others said they disappeared through the crowd aloft.

Some averred the attack was planned and executed by the most notorious of all southwestern desperadoes not behind bars—Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd.

For the past two weeks Floyd has been taunting law officers and threatening them first at one point, then at another. The number one desperado was reported seen at Deepwater, Mo., 90 miles from Kansas City, at midnight. Officers admitted he easily could have reached here in time to execute the attempted delivery, but did not entirely accept the theory.

SEVERAL AUTOS IN CORNER ACCIDENT

No one was injured early Saturday when several automobiles figured in a mix-up at Court and Mound-sts.

An eye-witness of the accident reported it in this manner: "A man named Neff from Stoutsville was driving west on Mound-st. and two automobiles, one driven by E. L. Tolbert and the other by an unidentified man were going north on Court-st. The unidentified man saw that Neff was not going to stop for the light which changed to red just before he started across the street but Mr. Tolbert, seeing a green light in front of him started to cross Mound-st. unable to see the approach of the car from his right."

"The automobiles was hit and it was thrown against the bumper of S. C. Grant's Chevrolet coupe which had been stopped anticipating an accident. Grant's bumper was bent."

IMMELL ON AIR

Robert L. Immell, of Yellow-bud, agent for the farm loan board, spoke Saturday afternoon over WLW, Cincinnati.

His talks are to familiarize the public with provisions of the farm loan act. His office is in Louisville, Ky.

Boards of education of Scioto-twp. and Perry-twp. are expected to complete their teaching rosters for 1933-34 school year when they meet Monday and Tuesday, respectively.

accepted the alteration, although spokesmen for the governor charged them with "insincerity."

Members of the house, who are undecided as to how they will vote, will be subjected to pressure from both sides over Sunday and Monday. The governor needs 68 votes to pass the bill. His opponents believe he cannot rally more than 60.

Democratic Floor Leader Keith Lawrence, of Cleveland, admitted prior to the week-end recess that the lack of sufficient votes caused postponement of the crucial roll-call scheduled for yesterday.

In trying to win undecided members to their side, anti-sales taxes will protest against the "swap" the governor made Thursday with rural members when he announced his support of their bills for refunding and cancelling highway assessments, and retiring county road bonds.

Administration spokesmen believe this "trade" gave the governor the votes he needed.

Debate will be resumed Monday night at a brief session, but the show-down is not scheduled until Tuesday.

Did You Know

By Pat J. Kirwin

THAT Barton Walters, local attorney, has the key to the first jail in Circleville. This key, with a long and interesting history, was sold to Mr. Walters several years ago by Dr. H. R. Clarke of this city. The key is a beautiful specimen of hand-carved wrought iron work and it is thought that a local foundry-man made it. The first jail in Circleville was completed in 1811 by Andrew Briner at a cost of $55 and stood at the southeast corner of the greater circle, now the corner of Franklin and Court-sts., where the W. H. Albaugh Co. building stands. In 1860 when this old structure was being torn down, Dr. H. R. Clarke and William Doane were appointed to draw up plans for the construction of a new city building which would house the city jail. At that time Dr. Clarke, the living Dr. Clarke's father, came into possession of the key. The old relic hung in Dr. Clarke's and his father's offices a number of years. At one time Dr. H. R. Clarke was offered "any price" for the key by a Columbus admirer of antiques, but he refused to sell it. Several years ago while conducting a sale, Dr. Clarke offered the key and it was purchased by Mr. Walters. It measures about 10 inches long and weighs about two and one-half pounds.

That the safe in the county treasurer's office was installed in December, 1869, because the old safe "was pie for the burglars." According to newspapers of the time the old safe was considered one of the best made, but it was added, "the burglars improve in skill as fast as the manufacturers and from last accounts the burglars have the best of it." The safe weighs 13,000 pounds, is 60 inches high, 48 inches in width and 29 inches deep. The walls are three and one-half feet thick and made of alternate plates of iron and steel welded together. Inside the safe is a chest about two feet high. At the time the safe was installed the outer door had one of Macneale's excelsior locks and the door of the chest, two of Sargeant's magnetic locks. Both were dial locks without keys. However since that time improvements have been made on the safe, time locks being attached. The safe was originally installed by Macneale and Urbana of Cincinnati at a cost of $2,100.

That the first railroad completed through Circleville, the Cincinnati, Wilmington and Zanesville Co., the first train of which arrived here in March, 1857 was sold in Cincinnati on December 2, 1869, by Charles Moran, receiver, for $1,004,000. T. L. Jewett, president of the Panhandle Railroad was the purchaser. It was at this time that the Pennsylvania railroad began operating through here, as the above purchase secured the control of the road to the Pennsylvania Central and Panhandle road which later became the Pennsylvania.

That Emory G. Humaston, a teacher in the Circleville Union school 70 years ago, died from injuries inflicted by one of his pupils. On June 10, 1862, as Mr. Humaston attempted to correct a lad of 15 years of age, the pupil picked up an iron ink-stand hurling it at striking Mr. Humaston on the right side of the head above the temple, fracturing his skull. Dr. H. R. Clarke, W. Union-st., was a member of the class. The teacher completed his work for the day but was taken badly ill in the evening. He died on Monday, June 16. The lad was arrested and later indicted for manslaughter, but due to his youthful age, he was never punished by law. The board of education paid all of Mr. Humaston's expenses including his funeral and employed two attorneys, Messrs. Olds and Renick to investigate the facts.

Abduct St. Paul Brewer

$100,000 Ransom Demanded or Death of Wealthy Scion is Threatened

FACT KEPT SECRET

Infamous Abductor is Identified in Crime

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 17.—William Hamm, Jr., 39-year-old millionaire brewer and scion of one of St. Paul's oldest families, was being held today by kidnapers who have threatened to kill their captive unless $100,000 ransom is paid.

Warning that they are dealing with a veteran kidnaping gang of the northwest was served on authorities when a taxi-cab driver who delivered the ransom note identified Verne Sankey as the man who engaged him for the mission.

Sankey is wanted for the abduction here of Haskell Bohn, son of a wealthy manufacturer, as well as the sensational kidnaping of Charles Boettcher II, Denver millionaire, several months ago.

NEWS WITHHELD

Police withheld news of the abduction, which occurred Thursday, until late last night in the hope of trapping the kidnapers. Efforts to contact the gang had proved futile, however.

Although police were without definite information as to where Hamm was seized, it is believed that he fell into the hands of the kidnapers while walking from his office to the Hamm residence.

A son of the late William Hamm, St. Paul capitalist, the abduction victim is president and treasurer of the Theodore Hamm Brewing Company of St. Paul. He likewise directs extensive realty properties and is prominent in St. Paul social and industrial circles.

A telephone call to William Dunn, business associate of Hamm, was made Saturday.

SHERIFF FREED BY DESPERADO

"Pretty Boy" Floyd and Aide Abduct Aged Couple Missourian Reports.

BOLIVAR, Mo., June 10.—Sheriff Jack Killingsworth of Polk-co, kidnaped by Charles ("Pretty Boy") Floyd, notorious desperado, returned here early today after a wild 500 mile ride at the point of a machine gun.

Killingsworth said that Floyd and an accomplice, Adam Ricchetti, threatened him with death if he disclosed details of the abduction. The sheriff was reluctant to describe his abduction.

The sheriff was driven 500 miles in a stolen automobile before he was finally released at Lee Summit, fifteen miles from here, at 11 o'clock last night.

He immediately telephoned E. W. Bitzer, an employee at the garage here where the sheriff was kidnaped yesterday, asking Bitzer to meet him at Clinton, Mo. Bitzer drove to Clinton and returned the officer here.

Authorities were informed that the gunmen had abducted an elderly couple near Deepwater in their flight. There they abandoned one automobile and commandeered another.

Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary Sunday

Married By Fr. Meara In Old St. Joseph's Church On June 20, 1883.

Climaxing 50 years of married life, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Howard of 370 E. Union-st. will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary with a dinner at their home at noon Sunday. Their six children and other close relatives will be present.

Mr. Howard, well known painter, is in excellent health and is still able to work as well as ever, he says. Mrs. Howard has enjoyed good health up until the past several weeks when she has had several attacks of sickness.

Up to Him to Put U. S. to Work

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Soldier, lawyer, industrialist and embodying the dominant characteristics of all three professions—that is General Hugh S. Johnson, to whom President Roosevelt has entrusted the gigantic task of administering the almost unlimited powers over industry conferred upon the government by the Industrial Recovery Bill, which includes the gigantic $3,612,000,000 public works program.

Until his selection for the important task by the President, General Johnson was unknown to the public at large. But those on the inside know that he has been a power on Capitol Hill since the new Administration took office. In fact, even during the last session of the Hoover Administration, he created a furor in the capital by questioning the figures of the then Secretary of the Treasury, Ogden L. Mills.

Secretary Mills had announced that $900,000,000 "new revenue" would be sufficient to balance the Federal budget. Congress took his word for it. Suddenly, from nowhere, appeared General Johnson to inform the Ways and Means Committee, with soldierly candor, that the Mills figures were all wrong.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran church, Dr. G. J. Troutman officiating, for Mrs. Mary Ann Goodman Dies At Lemley Home; Funeral Services Sunday.

Mrs. Goodman was born March 25, 1855, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Creighton Kuder. She married John Goodman in 1874, her husband preceding her in death 15 years ago.

Six children, three brothers and four sisters survive. The children are Mrs. Jessie Wolfe of Kingston; Mrs. Grace Ray of South Charleston, Mrs. Lemley at whose home she died, and Harry, Stanley and Noah Goodman, this city. The brothers and sisters are Charles Kuder of Columbus, Ed of Akron, Oliver of Kingston, Ida B. Lemley, Almada Jones and Lottie Clark of Springfield and Emma Hinton of Clarkburg. Eight grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren also survive.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Having rushed through a bewildered Congress within three months the most comprehensive industrial recovery measures ever enacted in the history of the nation, President Roosevelt today was headed for a brief holiday cruise up the New England coast.

His parting word to the nation as he left the capital enroute to Boston was assurance that his industrial recovery bill would put a million idle men to work by October 1st.

In an appeal to the nation to fall into team formation for the national drive for prosperity and stability, the President urged industries to co-operate with him by immediately cutting the work day to shorter hours and paying "decent living wages."

U. S. EXPERTS TO DRAW TARIFF PLAN

LONDON, June 17.—Encouraged by the world's most unanimous acceptance of President Roosevelt's proposed tariff truce, Secretary of State Cordell Hull today instructed American economic experts to approach the tariff problem and will put into concrete form the general recommendations made by Secretary Hull in his address before the plenary conference.

The proposals, to be put before the economic commission of the parity, will concern methods of approaching the tariff problem and will put into concrete form the general recommendations made by Secretary Hull in his address before the plenary conference.

JUNE QUIET FOR LOCAL MARRIAGES

Although June is said to be the month of marriages, the brides and grooms have been conspicuous by their absence in local probate court, according to a check-up.

Thus far, with over half the month gone, only three couples have been granted licenses in Judge C. C. Young's court. In June last year 20 permits to wed were granted.

Judge Young Saturday was unable to account for the slump other than waging that Kentucky is capturing most of the local prospective brides and grooms.

DAMAGE SUIT IS SCHEDULED

Steele Versus Wright Begins Thursday; Bank Sued; McCoy Named Receiver.

The damage suit of Sheldon Steele, Columbus, against J. H. Wright of Kingston, will be started in common pleas court Thursday, Judge J. W. Adkins announced Saturday.

The suit asking damages of $1,480 is based on an auto wreck which occurred in front of the William Rudisill residence, Adelphi-ck, Sept. 5, 1930. Steele charges Wright with negligence.

Emmitt L. Crist is attorney for the plaintiff and Bartos Walters for the defendant.

The money suit of George Peters, near Yellowbud, against H. M. Crites and Co. which was scheduled for hearing Monday, has been continued. Peters, represented by Tom A. Renick asked $701.60 on an account. Crites is represented by C. A. Leist.

The re-trial of Newell McNeal, Williamsport stock dealer, on a statutory charge is scheduled for Monday, June 26, and the trial of L. E. Miller, Watt-st., has been set for June 29.

CONSERVATOR SUES

The Scioto Bank of Commercial Point, through its conservator, William M. Beavers of S. Court-st., has been granted judgment on a cognovit note filed in common pleas court against John O. and Emmit Beckett of Scioto-twp for $3,430.35 with six per cent interest and costs of the case.

Attorney General John W. Bricker and Barton Walters are attorneys for the conservator.

A foreclosure suit on the same note has also been filed against the defendants by the conservator.

RECEIVER NAMED

Affleck McCoy, of Washington-twp, Saturday, was appointed receiver to collect the farm rents of the estate of Mrs. C. H. Menfelter, of Wayne-twp, by Judge J. W. Adkins in common pleas court. He is under $500 bond.

The receiver was appointed as a result of a suit filed in common pleas court during the past week by Barton Walters, attorney for McCoy, which asked the receiver to take from Mrs. Menfelter due to the latter's negligence and carelessness in supervising a farm.

Encouraged by their triumph over administration forces, they served notice that they will insist upon elimination of nearly all exemptions and a consequent reduction of the 2 per cent tax to a one per cent tax if they are compelled to accept the bill.

The victory scored by the insurgents during a debate which raged for several hours yesterday means that all foods would come within the bounds of the governor's $40,000,000 tax bill.

SCANT HOPE HELD FOR DARING FLIER

'Jim' Mattern Unheard From; Alaska Aviators See Possibility of Landing on Isle.

NOME, Alaska, June 17.—The mysterious silence of the Arctic closed in today on "Smiling" Jimmy Mattern, daring Texas aviator who hopped off Wednesday from Khabarovsk, Siberia, on the dangerous 2,400-mile flight to Nome, Alaska.

Despite growing fears that he may have met with an accident, veteran Nome aviators asserted there was a good chance that he may have landed safely on some uninhabited Aleutian island, as did Allen and Moyle on a similar flight several years ago, or else turned back to some tiny Siberian camp that was without communications with the outside world.

MURDER-SUICIDE

MARIETTA, June 17.—Believed to have been motivated by jealousy, James Arbor, 35, today shot and killed Albert Newton, 58, and then committed suicide after having fired several shots at his wife.

The double tragedy took place in the apartment of Arbor's wife.

Mrs. Arbor escaped the murderous gunfire of her husband by climbing through a window to a porch roof where she was assisted to the ground by neighbors who had been attracted to the house by the noise of the exploding weapon.

Portsmouth, Lancaster Job Are Included

Circleville has been definitely placed on the administration's public works program, according to additional advices from Washington, Saturday, substantiating a report Friday afternoon that bids will be asked within the next 45 days.

A communication from the capital, Saturday, said, "Circleville's project, $85,000 allotment, was selected and negotiations almost completed, is included in the program." The Hohen-Schleyer property at Court and Mound-sts is the site.

Other projects included in this vicinity are Portsmouth post office, a $373,000 proposition, and Lancaster post office extension and remodeling, $76,500.

According to plans of the government bids on $25,000,000 of public building will be sought within the next 45 days, in addition to a like amount on which bids are now being sought.

LIST NOT COMPLETE

Postmaster General James H. Egan and L. W. Roberts, assistant secretary of the treasury, mentioned the arrangements but the full list of the projects, which bids are to be asked have not been formulated.

Roberts told reporters that in

FINAL VOTE ON TAX NOW NEAR

Expect Showdown Tuesday; Foodstuffs Exemption Removed From Bill

COLUMBUS, June 17.—Having blasted the foodstuff exemption out of Governor George White's sales tax during preliminary debate yesterday in the House of Representatives, enemies of the bill today started a week-end drive for strength to defeat the tax entirely when it comes up for a vote, probably Tuesday.

Encouraged by their triumph over administration forces, they served notice that they will insist upon elimination of nearly all exemptions and a consequent reduction of the 2 per cent tax to a one per cent tax if they are compelled to accept the bill.

The victory scored by the insurgents during a debate which raged for several hours yesterday means that all foods would come within the bounds of the governor's $40,000,000 tax bill.

The Church Invites You

THE ETERNAL APPEAL OF THE CHURCH

The church should have a perpetual appeal because time is invested in thoughts of eternity. The enduring things of all life—Faith, hope, love, are stressed there. We are God hungry by creation, and He can be found always in the sanctuary. Public worship sincerely engaged in can but draw to God. The sins, sorrows, cares and responsibilities of our daily life are erased by worship and praise. Finally, Jesus Christ, the divine Son of God, found his way into the temple to worship and urges all His followers to do likewise.

Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

HOW IMPROVE CHURCH FINANCES?

This very pertinent question has been answered by Warren H. Denison in The Congregationalist. He recommends 1. That faith be established among church people in the cause of Christianity; stimulation of confidence in the local church. 2. That men and women of high personal character be chosen for finance department committees, treasurers, canvassers. 3. That a new and enlarged vision of the value of the church to the world, the community, their families and themselves be given to the congregation. 4. That only Scriptural methods and plans be used for the financial program. 5. That all funds be properly accounted for in a business-like way. 6. That no apologies be made or that there be no hesitancy in asking people for money for the Kingdom work. Through financial contacts came greater interest in other phases of the Christian life. 7. That all organizations of the church report all receipts disbursements and balances to the church for information and permanent record. 8. That new members be called upon by the financial secretary the week following their uniting with the church and have explained to them the church's financial plan and secure his pledge. 9. That some new persons be placed on the finance committee each year with a system of rotation so that new leadership in this field is constantly being developed.

The laws of God are the same through prosperity and adversity.

Whatever you dislike in another be sure to correct in yourself.

Reputation Not For Sale

A big price is often placed upon the name of a man of fame. Many organizations offer large sums of money to some national leader for the privilege of publishing his connection with the firm.

After the Civil War, many offers of honored places came to General Robert E. Lee, but he refused all but the one which came from Washington College, where he became president at a very small salary.

On one occasion he was tendered the presidency of an insurance company at a salary of $50,000. He declined the offer on the grounds that he knew nothing about the business and therefore he was not worth that salary offered.

"But General," said the representative interviewing him, "You will not be expected to do any work. What we wish is the use of your name."

"Don't you think that if my name is worth $50,000 a year to you, I ought to be very careful about taking care of it?" was General Lee's response.

JESUS RISES FROM THE DEAD

LESSON TEXT—Mark 16:1-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: he is risen: he is not here: behold the place where they laid him. Mark 16:6.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Living Again.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Conquers Death.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Living Lord.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Power of the Resurrection.

I. The Visit to the Sepulchre (vv. 1-4).

1. By whom (v. 1). Mary Magdalene, the mother of James, and Salome. They brought sweet spices with which to anoint him. This was a ministry of love, yet had they believed what he had said concerning his resurrection, they would have known that his body would not be there.

Mary of Bethany understood this. She therefore expressed intelligent affection for the Lord, and against the day of his burying poured out her box of precious ointment upon him (John 12:3, 7).

2. The time of (v. 2). It was very early in the morning of the first day of the week, before the rising of the sun.

3. Their perplexity (v. 3, 4). They questioned as to who should roll away the large stone from the mouth of the tomb. To their surprise they found the stone removed.

II. The Angel in the Tomb (vv. 5-8).

Jesus knew that these women would come to the sepulchre with perplexed and unbelieving hearts, so he had an angel waiting there to announce to them the fact of his resurrection. Note the message of the angel:

1. "Be not affrighted" (v. 6). How sorely they needed this kind word.

2. "Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth which was crucified" (v. 6). This threefold designation shows with marvelous clearness—

a. His humanity—"Jesus."

b. His lowly residence—"Nazareth."

c. His ignominious death—"crucified."

3. "He is risen; he is not here. Behold where they laid him" (v. 6). He was born in lowly circumstances and suffered the shameful death on the cross, but now is the conqueror of death. His resurrection gives meaning to his death (I. Cor. 15:17).

4. "Go your way, tell his disciples and Peter" (v. 7). All the disciples needed this blessed news, but Peter especially, since he had so emphatically denied his Lord.

5. "He goeth before you into Galilee, there shall ye see him" (v. 7). Christ had told the disciples that he would rise from the dead and meet them in Galilee (Matt. 28:32).

III. The Appearances of the Risen Christ (vv. 9-14).

Since Christ's resurrection was to be the central theme of apostolic preaching, it was necessary that they have a certainty of knowledge as to it (Acts 1:3). Without the resurrection of Christ, his death would be meaningless. Out of the ten or more appearances, Mark refers to three.

1. To Mary Magdalene (vv. 9-11). Her devotion was amply rewarded by being the first to meet the risen Lord. She went at once and told the story to the disciples, but they refused to believe her.

2. To two disciples on the way to Emmaus (vv. 12, 13). Luke gives full particulars concerning this ap-

CHICAGO, June 17.—Well-muscular collegiates and high school athletes from all parts of the country will compete at Soldier field this afternoon and tonight and when it's all over will come Southern California with another and a fourth national collegiate track and field championship.

This race and the winning of the 100 and 200-yard dash by Ralph Metcalfe, the midnight express of Marquette, will be assured. That there will be more customers in the yawning chasm of the great stadium than officials and perspiring contestants is not assured.

Certainly the 500 odd spectators who viewed the qualifying events yesterday did not indicate that the gates would be torn down in an effort to see the boys doing the thing for dear old si-wash today. Conspicuous by his absence was "Blazing Ben" Eastman, whose legs were to have carried Stanford to victory.

TROJANS FAVORED
But Eastman could not be there and so Southern California, according to those who sit up by candlelight to settle such matters, will be the favorite.

run up a total of 60 or more points to win.

In the confession of wildly behaving officials, announcers who announced this and then that and athletes who raced over the ground in a series of intercollegiate events, several of the Western conference stars who had given promise of sterling deeds were eliminated from the competition. The most amazing elimination was that of Jack Keller, the Ohio State hurdler, who bumped into the last hurdle.

Willis Ward, Michigan's negro hurdler, won the second heat of the high hurdles in the sluggish time of 15 seconds, but was disqualified because he kicked over three barriers. This moved Casper of Texas Christian into the lead and Welsh of Southern California into second place. Ward was only able to qualify in the broad jump after he had leaped 22 feet 7 inches for seventh and the last qualifying position.

MICHIGAN OUT
Ward's defeat virtually put Michigan out of the meet. Stanford also suffered considerably in the qualifying events, so Indiana alone threatens the reign of the Trojans. Metcalfe, of course, was a winner in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, but Marquette has only one Metcalfe and thus will score few more than 200 points.

Daily Drama

The hero, Sam Leslie, Brooklyn, drove in two runs and beat his former mates, the Giants, 3 to 1, in his first game in a Brooklyn uniform.

The goat, Hughey Critz, Giants, missed a homer by failing to slide home after making a long wallop. He was tagged out by Catcher Al Lopez, who stood nonchalantly at the plate with his hands on his hips as though there was to be no play made on the runner.

Peaceful Ring Meeting

On the last occasion they met in a ring, Jack Dempsey (right) and Jack Sharkey concentrated all their efforts on committing mayhem on each other. Now they're friendly enough as they chat in the ring, at Orangeburg, N. Y., where Champion Sharkey is training to defend his title against Primo Carnera.

Rothrock's Hit Wins For Birds

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 17.—A timely double by Jack Rothrock, substitute Columbus first baseman, gave the Red Birds a run in the tenth inning to defeat the Indians, last night, 4-3. The defeat not only gave the Birds a six game lead over the league but broke the spell of the youthful Bill Thomas has held over the Ohio team. He had defeated the outfit three times before suffering defeat.

Disposal Of Tax Dollar Is Shown

COLUMBUS, June 17.—Here's the low-down on where your tax money goes.

The information is culled from Governor George White's $80,000, 600 biennial appropriation bill, 300 pages thick, which reveals among other things, that Ohio's biggest business is its government.

The money you contribute in taxes is used to operate a going concern that outstrips even the wealthiest corporations in the magnitude of its spending.

Thirty-six million dollars for highways and the highway department. Whew! Two years ago, however, when the state was richer, the highway budget was nearly $32,000,000.

A cool $1,382,000 for the dignified group of legal experts comprising the state supreme court, and their helpers. This includes a salary of $10,480 a year for Chief Justice (Carl V. Weygant) and salaries of $10,000 a year for each of six associate justices.

DROP IN BUCKET

The amount spent on the governor, his secretaries and servants, his occasional travels and the executive mansion is just a drop in the bucket, totaling $95,936.

Governor White's salary is $8,400, well under the pay of the supreme court judges. He has three secretaries, two clerks, four stenographers, a telephone operator and a messenger attending him at the executive offices.

William J. Moore, the first secretary, who formerly was an English instructor at Notre Dame University, draws a salary of $4,400.

The governor is taken home to the executive mansion at night by a $1,346-a-year chauffeur where the door is opened by a $1,022-a-year butler, who then surrenders him to a $1,080-a-year cook.

Miss Mary White, hostess of the mansion, employs two maids, who receive a total of $1,596 a year.

The legislature, spending at the rate of $1,000 a day while it is in session, requires $724,759 for the two-year period.

The safety and security afforded the state by the Ohio National Guard costs $370,714, including $7,152 a year for an air hanger, $7,606 a year for an arsenal, and $4,000 a year for "the promotion of rifle practice."

Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, the commander, gets $2,200 a year for superintending the militia, in addition to his regular pay of $3,200 for being a member of the cabinet.

Next to the highway department, the most expensive function of government is the welfare department, which pays $12,899,800 for the care of the state's wards at various welfare institutions.

OHIO STATE HIGH

Ohio State University, kingpin of the educational system, costs $5,866,900 for the two years, and this is a big reduction from 1931-32. The university spends $15,000 a year for postage alone. Salaries and wages amount to $4,588,450 for the biennium.

For the upkeep of the state's one airplane and the pay of Capt. Fred Smith, state director of aeronautics, along with his assistants the state pays a total of $21,745.

An unsuccessful attempt to eliminate the appropriation for the bureau of aeronautics on the ground that it is not necessary, was made when the appropriation bill was considered in the house of representatives.

The prohibition department's estimated two-year expenditure is $200,000.

Minor items in the budget, which contribute to the immense total include the following:

Electoral college, $700; state fair, $393,833; Logan Elm State park, $770; bureau of criminal identification, $19,836; film censorship, $37,298; Ohio Cooperative Topographic survey, $32,400; division of laundry in the department of education, $29,196; Ohio School of the Air, $8,533; Ohio Waterways commission, $5,000; Headquarters, Ohio Grand Army of the Republic, $7,940; state board of embalming examiners, $6,498; 37th Division, A. E. F. Veterans' Association, $3,000; Ohio Rainbow Division, $1,750; bureau of conservation officers, $433,110; bureau of game farms, $134,428; bureau of inland lakes and parks $177,555; United Spanish War Veterans, $13,160.

The budget proposed by Governor White, although reaching a high total, is one of the lowest submitted in Ohio in many years. The governor's economy axe has cut the appropriation almost in half.

If state revenues fail to measure up to expectations, the governor, by executive action, will arbitrarily make further cuts.

Shoestring Railroad Empire Built by Van Sweringens

Map shows the Van Sweringen "railroad empire" which, according to testimony of the Cleveland magnates at Washington, was started with nothing but $2,100,000 borrowed from Morgan & Co. The loan was later repaid. The Morgan out of $11,700,000 the Van Sweringens borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Loss Spending Needed

FIGURES collected by the Twentieth Century fund, and organization making a study of economic conditions, point unerringly to the fact that spending by the state and local governments must be drastically reduced if the country is to be saved from a more serious depression than that through which it now is passing.

The aggregate of state and local debts in 1932 was $18,685,000,000, which represented an increase of $17,000,000,000 in 1929 and was four times that of 1914. The interest alone in 1932 amounted to $857,000,000, with retirements calling for $907,000,000 in addition.

Of the total indebtedness, only $2,000,000,000 represented the debts of states, which emphasizes that municipalities are the chief offenders in unwise spending. The total of state and local debts has risen to 7 per cent of the nation's taxable wealth as against 3 per cent a decade ago.

What are some of the results of these mounting debts? Increased taxation to meet them, is one. A more serious one is that taxes already have reached such heavy proportions in some communities that they can not be boosted further and that default results. Up to February 1 last, the Twentieth Century fund found more than 1,100 local governments in 42 states had defaulted on their bonded indebtedness, and one state, Arkansas, was listed as having done likewise.

These figures show the serious drift of conditions. There is but one remedy and that is to cut down on spending.

If prosperity is to endure, it is evident that there must be called a halt in this extravagant borrowing by local governments. Massachusetts has learned what this pay-as-you-go plan can accomplish in state affairs. Cities and towns the country over must learn the same lesson. Otherwise the time will come when borrowing will no longer be possible, and private business will be in danger of suffocation in the midst of public bankruptcy.

If the federal government permits easy access to the federal treasury of municipalities and states facing bankruptcy it will be giving encouragement to continuance of the conditions that have brought on the present dangerous situation.

Tax Slackers

THOSE who evade or attempt to evade payment of taxes do not cheat the government, every citizen being a part of the government must have so much revenue and those who fail to pay their share are only increasing the tax burden of better citizens.

It is estimated by the treasury department at Washington that one of every 22 citizens is a tax dodger. This means that millions are shirking some portion of their duties as citizens, although all enjoy their full share of the benefits of citizenship.

There might be less tax evasion if more people looked upon payment of taxes as a civic duty rather than as a penalty of citizenship. Probably most tax dodgers believe they are withholding from extravagant governments and gouging politicians rather than heaving new burdens on fellow citizens.

High Cost of Bad Health

JOHN L. DUBLIN, health statistician, asserts that the total economic value of human beings in the United States of their revenue-producing value is about 1,500 billion dollars, as opposed to all material and animal wealth in the country of 221 billion dollars. He asserts that the economic loss by preventable deaths is 6 billion dollars yearly, while 2 1/2 billion are lost through illness sufficient to incapacitate the sick from working.

It is clear, without raising the question of humanity, much less sentimentality, that public money spent for health protection and education will be repaid many times over by reducing unnecessary deaths and sickness.

CHAPTER I

Mary Faith was burning her bridges. For three years, almost four, she had been waiting to burn them. Waiting to give up her room at Mrs. Puckett's family hotel in River Street. Waiting to tell Mr. Mark Nesbit, the head of the Nesbit Mercantile Company, that she was planning to give up her position as his private secretary just as soon as he could fill her place. Waiting to let her small world know that she was going to marry Kim Farrell at last.

For three years, almost four, she had been engaged to marry Kim Farrell.

For three years she had worn his modest diamond on the third finger of her left hand, and had spent part of every lunch hour embroidering guest towels and table runners for the home that would be Kim's and hers some day.

"If you don't get married pretty soon," Jean Bartlett, the head stenographer at Nesbit's, had said to her less than a week before, "you'll own enough hand embroidered linens to start a shop! I don't believe in these long engagements yourself. There should be a law against them. . . . Too many girls find themselves disappointed old maids at the end of them instead of blushing brides!"

Mary Faith had not answered her. She had only looked at her with clear, untroubled eyes and smiled. She had no doubts about Kim Farrell. He loved her just as she loved him. And so she was willing to wait for him.

And then last night, as if to justify her faith in him, Kim had suddenly turned to her in the lamplight of Mrs. Puckett's old-fashioned parlor and asked her when she would marry him.

"Why—in about two weeks, I think," she had answered him as soon as she could get her breath. "You see, I'll have to tell Mr. Nesbit I'm leaving, and it will take me a few days to break his new secretary in to do my work. . . . Kim, to think of us really getting married in two weeks! Why, I never knew anyone could be so happy as I am right this minute!"

Long afterward it came back to her that he had said nothing about his own happiness that night.

At breakfast she had told Mrs. Puckett that she was going to be married on the first of October.

At noon she had broken the news to Jean Bartlett, who was half expecting to step into her shoes at the office.

It was half past five in the afternoon now, and Mary Faith was standing at the door of Mr. Mark Nesbit's private office.

She had something for him to sign in one hand and the door knob in the other. . . . It was going to be hard to open that door and walk into the office to tell him she was leaving Nesbit's at the end of the month.

She had worked for him for four years—one year as a stenographer and three years as his private secretary. The place itself was like home to her. She had come to love the big, shabby offices with their cork-covered floors, their green-shaded lights and their high, narrow windows that faced the west.

The people who worked in them were her friends—all of them, from Jean Bartlett down to Stanley Odeskalki, the office boy. There was not one of them whom she was not going to miss in the new life that lay just ahead of her.

With a keen little sigh she turned the door knob and stepped into Mr. Mark Nesbit's office. He was standing with his back to the room, looking down into the parking space at the side of the building and fidgeting with the window shade.

At the sound of the door closing he swung round and met Mary

"I'm going to be married on the first of October, Mr. Nesbit," said Mary

Faith's eyes. Her deep steady eyes were like Mary Faith herself, somehow. You could not look into them without seeing that you could bank on her always for honesty and goodness.

They were dark blue, fringed with heavy lashes, and they would have given a certain beauty to even a plain woman. But Mary Faith was not plain. Health glowed in her cheeks and lips with a rose-red flush that left the rest of her face to the dusky whiteness of her skin, to the blackness of her brows and lashes.

Her dark hair swept up from a widow's peak on her forehead and her lips, when she smiled, had the tilt of flying wings.

She was not smiling now. Serious and silent, moving like a breath, she came across the thick carpet of the office and laid her letters down upon Mr. Nesbit's glass-topped desk.

"I can mail these on my way home, Mr. Nesbit," she said quietly as she stood beside his chair, watching him sign his name to them one by one.

He had nice, clever-looking hands, she thought, watching them move across the papers in front of him. She had always liked his nice, homely face, his dark quick glance, his firm, pleasant way of giving orders. She knew that he was a bachelor and that he was only thirty-four years old. She knew too that he was making a tremendous success of the business that had been left to him by his father.

But neither his money nor his attractive bachelorhood had ever had any power to stir Mary Faith. For she had met Kim Farrell just a little while after she began to work at Nesbit's, and since that time there had been only one man in the world for her—Kim.

"Mr. Nesbit," she said when Mr. Nesbit had laid down his fountain pen and was blotting the last of the letters, "Mr. Nesbit, I want to tell you that I am going to leave at the end of this month."

He turned in his chair and gave her a sharp frowning look.

"Leaving?" he repeated. "Leaving? What do you mean? Don't things suit you here?"

"I'm going to be married on the first of October, Mr. Nesbit."

He went on frowning at her a moment or two longer.

"Married," he said finally in a flat colorless voice. "I see."

"I'm sure Miss Bartlett can do my work, and I think she'd like to have the position," Mary Faith went on. "If you decide to give it to her I'll be glad to show her everything she'll need to know, before I leave."

She waited for him to answer her; but he said nothing. He sat looking at her with a puzzled, curious look in his eyes.

The room was very still. Outside the half past five whistles began to blow. An unseen door somewhere in the building banged twice. In the outer office Stanley Odeskalki began to whistle "The Wedding of the Winds." He had been whistling maddening bits of it all day long.

"I'll be sorry to leave," said Mary Faith with a nervous little catch in her voice. "I've enjoyed working for you, Mr. Nesbit."

Still he said nothing, and there seemed to be nothing more for her to say. She turned to go, and at her sudden movement Mr. Nesbit gave a start as if he were waking from a deep reverie.

"Wait a minute," he said. "I suppose I should have been expecting this. But the fact is that it takes me completely by surprise. Somehow, or other, I've never connected you with the idea of getting married and going away."

AT THE GRAND

The powers that be in Hollywood have hit upon another screen "team" that has struck the public fancy if one is to judge by the pulling power of the Columbia picture, "Child of Manhattan," currently at the Grand Nancy Carroll is starred, with John Boles playing opposite. The story is an adaptation by Gertrude Purcell of the Preston Sturges Broadway stage hit of the same title. Eddie Buzzell, erstwhile musical comedy star, directed. Charles Bueh Jones, Clara Blackie and Matthew Betz appear in important supporting roles.

The story, a romantic drama, concerns a pretty little taxidriver in one of New York's many glittering dance palaces who meets and falls in love with Park Avenue millions. The role is Nancy Carroll's first for Columbia. Boles, as the keeper of the Park Avenue Millions, has a youngish-old role that is something entirely new for his army of fans.

THEY were having one of these murder trials in Chicago, and the guy that was accused of doing the deed had his wife swear that he came in at three o'clock that morning, so he wasn't at the murder that was done at four.

The lawyer says, "Are you sure your husband came in at three?"

"You bet I am."

"Did you see his face clearly?"

"Nope. Didn't turn on the light."

"How did you know it was your husband then?"

"Well, I know nobody that wasn't married to me would have kept still through what I was saying to him for the next hour. And besides, no innocent party was a-going to stand for the rolling pin I hit him on the head with, either."

Summer the Season of Varied Skin Complaints

The Pores of the Skin Are More Active and Hence More Liable to Infection During the Warm Months

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 Former Commissioner of Health,
 United States senator from New York
 New York City

WHAT CAUSES itchy skin? This is a question often asked by the doctor during the summer months. Itchiness, itching and other embarrassing skin symptoms are frequent complaints during warm weather.

At this time of the year the pores of the skin are more active, secrete more sweat and are more liable to infection. The danger of exposure to germs, parasites and contagious skin diseases, is increased by beach parties, bathing in contaminated waters and pools, and contact with

Many summer skin ailments can be traced to faulty digestion, lack of proper elimination and improper food. For example, soon after eating sea food a person may break out in a rash. The rash may be confined to the chest or face, or it may involve a large part of the body. The skin itches, becomes inflamed and the condition is extremely annoying.

"Impetigo Contagiosa"

This chain of symptoms is due to a "sensitivity" to the proteins found in sea food. Of course it may be another food—eggs, strawberries, what not. I would advise these sufferers to avoid any foods that produce this reaction. Knowing it comes from some particular food it may not be too difficult to decide just what is the irritating one.

"Impetigo contagiosa" is a common infectious disease of the skin usually encountered during the summer months. It is caused by a germ or parasite and is spread by infected sores and cuts. It is extremely contagious, rapidly spreading from one child to another. In rare instances adults may acquire the disease in beauty shops or barber shops. That is why you select the clean, sanitary shop of which there are plenty.

Though a disagreeable disease, impetigo fortunately is not a serious one. The skin becomes covered with many blisters filled with pus. The blisters break and dry upon the skin where they appear to be "stuck on," resembling wafers. The inflammation quickly subsides upon the application of a mild and soothing antiseptic lotion.

Prompt Treatment Essential

There are many other summer skin disturbances. I might say a word about "athlete's foot." This affliction is especially common at beaches and summer resorts where the visitors walk about without shoes or slippers. The disease is caused by a parasite usually encountered at bathing beaches, public pools and gymnasiums.

The affliction is more commonly known as "ringworm." When recognized and proper measures are taken, the disease can be easily checked. Too often it is neglected, or patent medicines are used without success. Never neglect inflammation or itching of the skin. If you are in doubt and do not know what your trouble is, consult with your doctor. Prompt and reliable medical attention will save you many hours of unnecessary suffering and worry.

were in kind, and an instant later the entrance of the Union station resembled a battle field with victims tottering the sidewalks. Obviously the gunman's attack had been well planned and based on accurate information as to the strength of the guard in charge of their captive companion.

Each gunman covered his man and with such dexterity that before reinforcements could arrive all of the officers were either dead or wounded.

Amazed spectators stood paralyzed and not daring to interfere while the desperadoes made their getaway. The gun battle broke so suddenly and struck such terror in the hearts of witnesses that it was difficult to get any two to agree on exactly what happened.

Some said there were only three bandits, but the majority agreed there were five. Likewise, there were conflicting accounts of their getaway. Some witnesses claimed they fled in a motor car and others said they disappeared through the crowd aloft.

Some averred the attack was planned and executed by the most notorious of all southwestern desperadoes not behind bars—Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd.

For the past two weeks Floyd has been taunting law officers and threatening them first at one point, then at another. The number one desperado was reported seen at Deepwater, Mo., 90 miles from Kansas City, at midnight. Officers admitted he easily could have reached here in time to execute the attempted delivery, but did not entirely accept the theory.

This was followed by a note which Dunn received yesterday afternoon. The message stated that Hamm was being held for $100,000 ransom and added:

"He will be killed if the cash isn't paid over."

Hamm had added a signed postscript to the note, begging his associates to pay the ransom immediately. Detailed instructions were given for payment of the ransom.

accepted the alteration, although spokesmen for the governor charged them with "insincerity."

Members of the house, who are undecided as to how they will vote, will be subjected to pressure from both sides over Sunday and Monday. The governor needs 68 votes to pass the bill. His opponents believe he cannot rally more than 60.

Democratic Floor Leader Keith Lawrence of Cleveland, admitted prior to the week-end recess that the lack of sufficient votes caused postponement of the crucial roll-call scheduled for yesterday.

In trying to win undecided members to their side, anti-sales taxes will protest against the "swap" the governor made Thursday with rural members when he announced his support of their bills for refunding and conceding highway assessments, and retiring county road bonds.

Administration spokesmen believe this "swap" gave the governor the votes he needed.

Debate will be resumed Monday night at a brief session, but the show-down is not scheduled until Tuesday.

No one was injured early Saturday when several automobiles figured in a mix-up at Court and Mound-sts.

An eye-witness of the accident reported it in this manner: "A man named Neff from Stoutsville was driving west on Mound-st and two automobiles, one driven by E. L.
